Participation of the youth in social and political life in Ukraine is essential for development of the country. Organized youth groups, movements, organizations, associations, unions have the most effective and creative ability to form new approaches and ways to solve their own problems in life, actively influence prevention of everyday problems of the younger generation, address issues of regional character, play a role in local government, influence the formation of personality of a young man as a subject of conscious civil activities.

Mastering knowledge together in an organization, studying social and political experience, taking active citizenship, young nationals integrate into modern society, thus modernizing its objective. The nature of philosophical values of young people and their implementation in practice affect the dynamics of the forming civil society, the role and importance of youth and the youth movement in the life of the state, region, oblast, city or village.

Questionnaire of leaders of youth groups partially confirmed the author's hypothesis that management of youth organizations believes that the main problem in the activities of organizations, except lack of funding and resources, is low social activity and the lack of interest of young people in membership and participation in such associations. The reasons for such passiveness are the lack of social position, modern life priorities of young people, the emergence of new forms of communication that replace live communication, and more.
